

Yarmouk, Aristotle University to hold seminar

AMMAN (JT) - The Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, in cooperation with Yarmouk University, will hold a seminar on the preservation of material cultural heritage next week. Several specialists from Greece will attend the June 23-26 event to be held at Yarmouk University under the EU Tempus Programme. The seminar will focus on the restoration of artefacts and cultural monuments by using scientific criteria and methods while highlighting the common cultural roots between the two countries, according to a statement released by the organisers.

Jordan Times

16/6/2008